How to add Quantico iSportsman Portal to your EXISTING iSportsman accounts.

Step 1: If you have an existing iSportsman account, please log-in with your existing login credentials at <https://quantico.isportsman.net/login.aspx>. Note that you will receive the following message:

Click, "Yes, join the Quantico iSportsman portal" to proceed. In your Account screen, you will now be able to switch back and forth between your accounts. The image below shows you how you can click back and forth between your accounts. Please note that iSportsman works with each organization/location individually and information based on Customer Type and account details does not transfer between Portals. Therefore, it is imperative to utilize your Quantico account only when hunting or accessing Quantico.

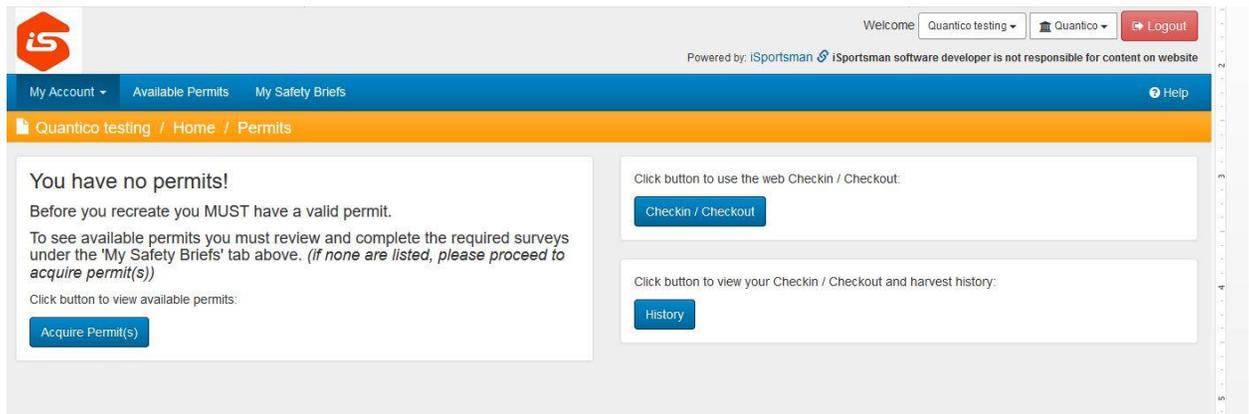

On the Quantico Portal, a question will come up about your Customer Type. You must choose the customer type that best describes you. Please note that after your initial Customer Type selection, only admins can make changes to your Customer Type and you will need to come in to the Game Check Station in order for us to change it for you.

Step 2. Please read through and acknowledge each of the Acknowledgments. As you are accessing a government facility, it is EXTREMELY IMPORTANT that you read through each of these carefully before proceeding.

Congratulations! You have successfully created a Quantico iSportsman account.

You will now be inside your iSportsman Quantico Account Home Page, the screen (pictured below) is what you will first see upon completing a Quantico iSportsman account, displaying "You have no Permits!"

Step 8: You must either acquire your required credentials to access the base (see Base Access Info on our webpage for steps to do so). If you already have said credentials:

Anglers: You can purchase your license directly online; you do not need to come by the check station.

Hunters: If you have credentials, come to the game check station PER hours listed on our home page to validate your license in order to be able to purchase a license. If you don't have a valid access credential, see Base Access info on our webpage.
